

Course Description:

International Law deals with the conduct of states and of international organizations, and with their relations inter se, as well as some of their relations with persons, whether natural or fictitious. The syllabus of Public International Law II will focus on an introduction to International Institutions, Business and Human Rights, Trade and Environment in International Law. The last part of this course will focus on the application of international law. The case studies provided will be conducted by students in groups. The case studies will cover every aspect of international law that has been discussed in the classroom.

Objectives:

- To give students an insight into to other aspects of international law, which were not covered in the first part.
- To educate them about how international law operate.
- To give an opportunity to students to learn about the international organization like UN.
- To familiarize student with law regarding the Environment and Trade.
- To discuss important cases that interprets provisions of international law and lay down general principles for future course.

Contents:

- a. International Institutions
- b. United Nations
- c. International Trade Law
- d. International Law and Environment
- e. Case Studies

References:

- a. M.N. Shaw, International Law, 7th Edtn. (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press)
- b. Crawford, Brownlies Principles of Public International Law,

- c. J. Crawford and M. Koskeniemi (edtrs.), The Cambridge Companion to International Law