

(ECON-746) Economics of Cities

Course Description

Survey of regional economic analysis impact of distance on classical economic markets and theory of the firm; industrial and residential location analysis; regional delineation; factor mobility; gravity models; regional economic growth and its measurement; urban and regional economic planning; cost-benefit analysis and economic base analysis.

Recommended Books

Henderson, J.V., Economic Theory and the Cities, (2nd Edition), Academic Press, (1985).

Kanemoto, Y., Theories of Urban Externalities, North-Holland, (1980).